Tony Goodchild Promoted To Director Of Product Management and Marketing

CLEARWATER, Fla. (MARKETWIRE)--August 10th, 2010 – Digital Lightwave®, Inc., a leading provider of optical networking test equipment and technology, today announced Tony Goodchild has been promoted to Director of Product Management and Marketing. Mr Goodchild will report directly to the Chief Executive Officer, Robert F Hussey, in his new role.

“We are building a new foundation at Digital Lightwave and as evidence of that commitment, Tony Goodchild has been promoted -- effective immediately -- to Director of Product Management and Marketing.” said Robert F Hussey, Chief Executive Officer. “This promotion recognizes Tony’s tremendous contribution to our client’s business and technology needs, while making sure Digital Lightwave meets the highest standards of service. He has also contributed enormously to the professional development of Digital Lightwave’s field sales engineers around the world since his employment at Digital Lightwave over eight years ago.”

Prior to joining Digital Lightwave, Mr Goodchild worked at Nortel for seven years in such diverse roles as implementation management, new product introduction, and test equipment automation. This experience proved invaluable to Digital Lightwave giving Tony a very “customer focused” business view and enabling him to anticipate his client’s needs and their marketplace demands.

Since joining Digital Lightwave as a sales engineer Tony has worked as Digital Lightwave’s Director of International Sales Support, while managing our sales engineering resources outside the USA .
